"Excuse me for troubling you again, Mr. Pringle, but I love dear Mary as my own, and cannot bear to make her unhappy—I must therefore, try to make her relent."

"It's no good teasing,—I never alter my mind; he's too young and too poor; long engagements are detestable things; and as they're not to be married, they'd better not be looking dismal at one another; so do as I advise you, pack off that fellow—if not, you know the consequences—they will marry, I shan't give them a farthing, and shall leave my money to old Martha or to a hospital. There, now, don't talk to me about that any more."

"But indeed, sir, you are too hasty.—Wentworth is an excellent young man, but a man of strong and deep feeling; such a blow to his hopes, just as he is starting in life, will do him inexcusable mischief; his employment will no longer have charms for him, and you will drive him perhaps into misery and vice."

"Let 'em marry, then, it's nothing to me."

"But a little assistance from you, sir, would enable them to marry comfortably and without anxiety."

"I'll do nothing of the sort. I tell you, don't talk any more about it."

CHAPTER VII.

MR. PRINGLE HAS A VISITOR.

With a sigh of despair, Mr. Austin walked out of the room, and old Pringle took his large watch out of his pocket and put it on the mantelpiece, and gazed at it long and fixedly, at its old white face and slowly moving hands; and as he gazed, a dim, thin film seemed to gather over it, which grew thicker, and thicker, and larger, and larger, and Pringle held his breath, and his hair stood on end; for from that film came forth a shadowy form—it was a man with a scythe and an hour glass.

"Who art thou?" said Pringle, trembling.

"I am he who makes of the young child an old man; of the chrysalis a gaudy butterfly; one often prayed to come, and often and often prayed to go, yet who never comes twice. I bring tears yet soothe all woe, and have the blessings of the worn and the weared hearts, for I bring them a peaceful rest at last; one whom you have badly used—and I have come to tell you so. I AM TIME. Sixty years I have been with you, and what use have you made of me!"

The Daily News

NEWPORT,
144 Thames Street.

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 22, 1857.

E. TORJEE, ESQ., is hereby authorized to transact for us any business connected with the News and Journal office, of this ward.

We were blessed yesterday with little more than an apology for a mail. Our share of it was two "Evening Standards," about a week old, and part of a letter.

We understand that the condition of Bank Lucy Ann, ashore below, is about the same as when first reported. A vessel was cut from the ice at Langley's wharf yesterday, to be sent to her assistance. It is hoped, that when relieved of a part of her load she may be got afloat without further damage.

There are two propellers from New York at anchor in the outer harbor in this port, not reported in our notice of arrivals—Names not ascertained.

Our harbor is clear of all impediments to vessels.

No LECTURE THIS EVENING!! The snow storm prevents E. P. Whipple from meeting his engagement here to-night.—He will Lecture in the People's Course on Feb. 13.

The missing Bishop is heard from and will lecture here on Feb. 6th.

The dispensations of Providence work ill to no man."

Thomas Starr King, will lecture next Thursday Eve, weather permitting!!

SINGULAR EFFECTS OF FRIGHT.—About two years ago, Mr. James Thomas of Gloucester, with his wife, was on a visit to West Gloucester. Their nearest way home was across the railroad bridge, a quarter of a mile long over the Canal river. The bridge was not planked, and is about fifty feet above the water. So great was the effect of the excitement caused by his dangerousfeat, that Mrs. Thomas, who was in good health previously, has been in poor health ever since, and during the time that has intervened, has not spoken a word.

ENTOMOLOGICAL SCIENCE.—Professor Agassiz says that more than a life-time would be necessary to enumerate the various species of insects and describe their appearance. Meiger, a German, collected and described six hundred species of flies, which he collected in a distance of ten miles circumference. There have been collected in Europe twenty thousand specimens of insects preying on wheat. In Berlin, two professors are engaged in collecting, observing and describing insects and their habits, and already they have published five large volumes descriptive of the various kinds of insects which attack forest trees.

CULTURE.—Reason requires culture to expand it. It resembles the fire concealed in the flint, which only shows itself when struck with the steel.

An aged woman, afflicted with an incurable disease, recently arrived in Rochester, N. Y., a stranger in the city, moneyless, and friendless. She said that her son, having become tired of supporting her, had placed her and her poor luggage on the cars, and left her helpless as she was, to take care of herself. She was taken in charge by the overseers of the poor, and the base ingratitude of the son is left unpunished.

A DOCTOR APPRECIATED.—The death of Dr. Adrian occasioned such joy at Rome that the night after his decease they adorned the door of his chief physician's house with garlands, adding this inscription, "To the deliver of his country."

LITERARY.

The American Almanac and Repository of Useful Knowledge, for the year 1857. 1 vol pp. 379. Boston : Crosby, Nichols & Co. "For sale in Newport by A. J. Ward and C. E. Hammett, Jr.

This is the twenty-eighth volume of the most valuable, statistical annual published in this country. This work is composed of two parts: the first consists of the Calendar and Celestial Phenomena for the year 1857, and, as na Almanac, is the fullest and most accurate we have.

The second part is a Crucible or rather a vast procession of statistics, both of this country and Europe. In a word everything that may properly come under the head of statistical information respecting the United States as a nation, the Individual States, other American States. The different nations of Europe, and the population of the Globe, is found here. The volume ends with a very full year's obituary both home and foreign, and a chronicle of events for the year past.

No one who wants to know what and where are the great powers of our civilization should be without this work. It is carefully bound, clearly printed, and as an encyclopedia of useful knowledge of a statistical and elementary kind, is not surpassed by any work in the world.

Pictures of The Olden Time, as shown in the fortunes of a family of Pilgrims. By Edward H. Senn. 1 vol. 12 mo. pp. 342. Boston : Crosby, Nichols & Co. Newport. For sale by C. E. Hammett, Jr.

Mr. Sears is already well known to all readers of the best religious literature of our time through his book upon "Regeneration." He is also more widely known as the author of the exquisite Christmas hymn commencing :

"Calm on the listening eve of night."

As a work of art—high art—Christian art—we have always thought this hymn unequalled by any other Christmas Song in our language.

We give it sufficient praise when we say that the book before us meets the expectations we had formed of its probable merits from a knowledge of the author's previous works. "Pictures of the Olden Time, as shown in the fortunes of a Family of the Pilgrims." We have never known a title more exactly descriptive of the contents of a volume than this. The words we have italicised indicate precisely the nature of the narratives given.

Here are Pictures of the Olden Time, and of that olden time—the most interesting of all to New England—which showed forth and determined the fortunes of families of Pilgrims.

Of this book there are two things to be said, First—Looking at it as a work of art as we would look at a poem or a novel, we have to say that Mr. Sears has in the announcement of his materials—in the life he has put into his scenes and his characters attained a point of excellence not surpassed by any work of the kind in our literature.—These pictures were touched by a poet's hand and the intense severity of the imagination had to do with the announcement of those scenes.

Second. Mr. Sears tells us in his preface that "the tales cannot be said to be founded on fact," since fact is not only the basis but the framework and substance of the whole." And in another place he recommends the method of studying history here pursued, viz by following the fortunes of family, as one of great interest and advantage. Regarded, then, as Studies in History, these narratives introduce a novel method of which we are decidedly of the Author's opinion, that no other could be pursued with more interest or advantage.

Here then we have a real specimen of the Romance of history which consists not of any historical fancies and myths, but of the boldest facts treated by a penetrating imagination and sound judgment.

We recommend this work to all our readers, as a history, a poem and a romance.

No one can rise from its perusal without a new sense of the grandeur and beauty of truth, the sacredness of duty, and the richness and strength of charity. In a word it is a work to interest, to instruct, and to edify.

The annals of Southern Methodism for the year 1855, 1 vol 12 mo pp. 385, for sale by W. A. Barlow.

This is the 1st no. of an annual which is valuable to every one wishing to know how the "Methodist Church south" "prospers."

It has also the attraction of being the agency of the Rev. D. L. Brayton, these Karen people have become acquainted with your medicine, and their demand for it is to me very surprising.

I have now by me orders for more than fifty bottles; but I have not got one bottle! I therefore wish you to send me a quantity. I could dispose of at least one hundred bottles this year. Send it, and I will pay you through the Treasurer of the Missionary Union. I hope we shall be favored with some of it as soon as possible. There is no medicine which stands so high in the estimation of the Karen of these provinces as the Pain Killer, and I feel willing to gratify them, as I entertain a very high opinion of its worth. C. G. THOMAS.

CALCUTTA, November 4th, 1853.

MESSRS. P. DAVIS & SON—Dear Sir—

The Karen here have no more confidence in their ancestors.—They desire rational remedies for the sick.—By various means, principally through the agency of the Rev. D. L. Brayton, these Karen people have become acquainted with your medicine, and their demand for it is to me very surprising.

I have now by me orders for more than fifty bottles; but I have not got one bottle! I therefore wish you to send me a quantity. I could dispose of at least one hundred bottles this year. Send it, and I will pay you through the Treasurer of the Missionary Union. I hope we shall be favored with some of it as soon as possible. There is no medicine which stands so high in the estimation of the Karen of these provinces as the Pain Killer, and I feel willing to gratify them, as I entertain a very high opinion of its worth. C. G. THOMAS.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE was the name given to the territory conveyed by the Plymouth Company to Captain John Mason, by patent, Nov. 7th 1629, with reference to the patentee, who was Governor of Portsmouth, in Hampshire, England.

VERMONT was so called by the inhabitants in their Declaration of Independence, Jan. 16, 1777, from French vert mont, green mountain.

MASSACHUSETTS was so called from Massachusetts Bay, and that from the Massachusetts tribe of Indians in the neighborhood of Boston. The tribe is thought to have derived its name from the Blue Hills of Milton. "I had learnt," says Roger Williams, "that the Massachusetts was so called from the Blue Hills."

Rhode-Island was so called, in 1644, in reference to the Island of Rhodes, in the Mediterranean.

CONNECTICUT was so called from the Indian name of its principal river, Connecticut, or Mohekanneew, word, signifying long river.

ANECDOCE OF DR. COOPER.—Doctor Cooper, of the South Carolina College, was one of the best natural old gentleman, that ever lectured to mischievous boys. On one occasion, when he entered the lecture room, he found the class all seated with most unfeigned punctuality, and looking wondrous grave. Mischievous, it was the cause, and it was apparent that they were prepared for a burst of laughter as the old doctor waded along to the professor's chair; for they sat an old be-goat up right, lashed to the chair. But they were disappointed of their fun, for instead of getting angry and storming at them, he mildly remarked, "Aha! young gentlemen I quite republican I see in your tendencies; fond of a representative government I elevated one of your own number to the chair, ha! Well well, it is all right. I dare say the present incumbent can fill it as well as any of you—You may listen to his lecture to-day. Good bye! Don't feel sleepy about it!" And away he went, without leaving a smile behind him.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BIRMINGHAM, Mass., 20th Dec., 1855.

Dr. J. C. AYER: I have used extensively the best remedy I have ever seen for Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. It contains in use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. RICHARD KNIGHT, M.D.

A. H. MORTLEY, Esq., of Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best remedy for its purpose ever printed. With a box cold I could sooner pay twenty dollars for a bottle than do without it; or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

Sprague, Mass., Feb. 7, 1856.

EXTRAORDINARY.—I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the distresses of children. We of our fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and command your medicine to our people.

THOMAS CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., Montevideo, Ia., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a terrible influenza, which continued about six weeks; took many medicines without relief, finally tried your Pectoral, which relieved the soreness. In my throat and lungs less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisis, and Bronchitis.

West Manchester, Pa., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing one who has labored under the disease for nearly forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M.D., Atmore, Miss., Co., Iowa, writes, Sept. 1, 1856: "During the practice of many years I have been equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ARMER HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.

Dear Sir: After a long and fatiguing day and a pleasure to inform you that your CHERRY PECTORAL has tons for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, till Dr. Strong of this city, where we have come for advice recommended the use of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day, and is now strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard.

GRANDE SHELBY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried ARMER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cure all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

PATENTED, SEPT. 16, 1850.

SIR.—

Herewith you are presented with a list of sizes with the price of each annexed,

of BROWNELL'S PATENT VENTILATOR

for all purposes where ventilation and a strong draft are required; and are particularly designed for RAIL ROAD CARS, PUBLIC BUILD-

INGS, SMOKEY CHIMNEYS, and CABOOSE and CAUTS.

The advantage proposed by this ventilator over all others is, it gives a uniform draft to a chimney, and at the same time excludes water

thus doing away with two great evils—a base draft and drippings down the chimney. The construction of the ventilator is very simple;

it can be easily adjusted to any use for which it may be required, and it is not liable to get out of order.
